

Over 53 million gallons of partially treated sewage leaches out of Hawai'i's approximately 88,000 cesspools every day. These outdated and inadequate wastewater systems leach nutrients, bacteria and other pathogens into groundwater and surface waterways, putting public health at risk and damaging coastal reef ecosystems.